New Safety Center Fills Need For Allendale Boro Protection

The new Public Safety Office of Allendale will go a long way in filling the need for a central office for operation of our system to protection for the borough.

The store at 126 West Allendale has been going through some extensive alterations for the past few weeks and now, all spotless and freshly painted will be a means of giving information and better service to the community.

Chief Forshay is planning to store all his records in the new office and start a course of instruction in law enforcement for his staff in the near future. Fingerprinting equipment will be available as well as a complete photofinishing shop. All this adds up to a better protection for the community.

The last central location for all police work was disbanded in 1939 and for the last five years all records have been kept at the Chief's home. Naturally this means loss of efficiency and the present arrangement will eliminate this.
